PERORANDUM FOR
SUBJECT: Nr. Attendance at New Naval War College Course
l. The Naval War College is in the process of revising its courses, combining two former courses entitled "Strategy and Logistics" and "Strategy and Tactics," into a new two year curriculum in Naval Warfare.
2. The First Year of the new course is designed for Naval officers with 15-20 years of commissioned service. It is also proposed to place in this half of the course, the representatives of civilian agencies, (except State) who annually send one man to the college, namely, CIA, AEC, OEG.
3. The Second Year of the new course is for men with 20-21, years of commissioned service. The State Department's annual representative will be expected to attend this half. Apparently most men will not take the two years successively.
J. H. Smith, Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Air, to attend our representative should do so, and partly in the belief that the First Year embodied the material in the old "Strategy and Tactics"
5. As the course got under way, starting 23 August 1954, contained in the "Strategy and Logistics" course. He prefers to be and Tactics" half, and his office (OCI) believes that we should
